

Combination Styles: Excellence / Insight

You are an even-tempered individual not inclined to outbursts or unexpected changes in moods. You are concerned with both getting things right as well as maintaining the status quo and the harmony around you.

Because you are quiet and not always forthcoming, others might underestimate your depths of feeling on an issue or your clear insight and understanding of those around you.

In a group situation you are unlikely to take the lead but will definitely contribute to both the harmony as well as the high quality of work the group produces.

If you are working on a project or in a team the quality of the work will be very important to you and you will want to have the time and space to do things properly. You are unlikely to enjoy an environment where a lot of change is required and where you have to constantly switch focus.

Empowering yourself

You have both the patience and the ability to delve deeply into highly detailed information or tasks. This sets you apart from others who may give up when something gets too difficult. Empower yourself by finding environments where you have the opportunity to do so.

Empowering others

Your strength in empowering others, is the deep and sincere relationships, which you build over time. You may not make friends or establish connection as quickly as others but your relationships are likely to be strong and enduring. You are thoughtful and considerate towards others and often deliver small acts of kindness, which may go unnoticed.

Conflict

You are likely to avoid conflict if at all possible. If forced into a conflict situation you may shut down or agree to avoid unpleasantness.

Careers

Find an environment where you are able to develop a specific specialist skill and can contribute to a team through your expertise. Environments which require great attention to detail, but which also require great levels of patience are ideal for you. These may often include technical careers such as Engineering, Accounting, Bookkeeping and IT.
