

Combination Styles: Inspiration / Insight

Your number one concern will always be relationships with others. You are an emotive person who works hard to establish positive happy relationships with those around you.

While you enjoy being the centre of attention you have the ability to include others and to make other people feel welcome and appreciated.

Empowering yourself

You may need to reflect on the fact that it is not always possible to please everyone all the time, and to free yourself of the expectation that you need to do so.

Empowering others

Others are likely to respond very well to your warm empathetic style and enjoy your outgoing nature. You are also able to create a relaxed and non-stressful social environment for others and are likely to be a great host or hostess.

Conflict

You are likely to employ an engaging and disarming approach to conflict to charm others out of their anger or emotional upset. If this doesn't work or you are faced with a very assertive person, you may retreat and shut down rather than get into an argument.

Careers

Careers with a clear focus on others, and where a good communication style is required, suit you well. These may include Counseling, Human Resources and Teaching. Customer Service type roles are also ideal for this person as it provides an opportunity to help others.
